

Le Marin can be considered the most important base south of the Antilles, thanks to the haulage structures and numerous services of the sector that can be found. It is the departure point for many holidays on sailing boats in the Caribbean, Antilles and towards the Grenadines.

The tourist port hosts about 600 boats.

On land, the nautical services are many.

The presence of the harbour customs and office facilitate the completion of possible bureaucratic formalities.

In addition to the numerous and typical shops, there are also supermarkets for buying groceries, and restaurants where it is possible to taste many local delicious dishes.