

It's a little rocky island which has the form of a truncated cone just in front of the namesake beach .

It was occupied by English, who placed their cannons and created a real fort to face the vessels which wanted to attack Fort de France.

A popular legend tells that French were able to occupy the island without a shot, simply disembarking a high quantity of rum