

The very small island with the shape of a conical log, is inhabited by very welcoming people, who practice fishing and build or repair boats, an art which is extremely diffused and with good results, frequently tested by who is fond of regattas.

The local houses are located on the hill, while the simple shops and small restaurants welcome the rare tourists along the beaches.